FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

One2OneMate, a Division of Alta Heights Technology Corporation, announces that Eliot Levinson has joined our team as the Education Technology Advisor with immediate effect.

Eliot Levinson is known nationally for his work in technology planning and management for school districts. He co-authors "Tech from the Top," a monthly column that appears in Converge Magazine. Levinson has experience in education and technology as a teacher in California and Pennsylvania, a middle school principal in Massachusetts, and an assistant to the chancellor of schools in New York City. He has held research positions in educational change at the RAND Corporation and MIT's Sloan School of Management. Levinson holds master's degrees in Education and Anthropology and a Ph.D. in Organizational Studies from Stanford University.

Levinson works as a strategic technology advisor to large school systems throughout the US. This along with his extensive knowledge of the educational technology industry will play a key roll in adapting the StudentMate™ to the various needs and wants of the U.S. K-12 market.
